

I am sorry that this came as a (bad) surprise. It is certainly OK for you to take your time to think this over. Since middle of September I and [REDACTED] have been discussing the situation and I wasn't sure of if it being possible to share our thoughts without you being obliged to notify the defence. I hope I didn't ruin your weekend.

I would like to consider all the angles over the weekend, if that is OK with you. I promise I will be in touch as soon as possible. Hope you can have a relaxing weekend [somehow I have the feeling you may just have been a little bit busy lately!!].

Subject: SV: Question

[REDACTED]

I was so glad to hear from you. Unfortunately I was out yesterday. As mentioned, I met with [REDACTED] in Stockholm last Wednesday. Lately we have been discussing what options the present situation leaves us. In May we met with two Swedish lawyers now representing Julian Assange here, [REDACTED]. From that meeting and other facts it seems that Julian Assange is absolutely determined not to go to Sweden, whatsoever. In spite of all efforts by you and the Metropolitan Police and the excellent work performed by you and your team, the chance of the judgment to extradite Assange being enforced within a reasonable time seems to be small. The unique action by Julian Assange to hide in an embassy and ask for and to be granted asylum could no one of us anticipate and seems to leave us with few options, none of them particularly attractive.

There is a demand in Swedish law for coercive measures to be proportionate. The time passing, the costs and how severe the crime is to be taken into account together with the intrusion or detriment to the suspect. Against this background we have found us to be obliged to consider to lift the detention order (court order) and to withdraw the European arrest warrant. If so this should be done in a couple of weeks. This would affect not only us but you too in a significant way. [REDACTED]

Kindest regards,
Marianne

Marianne,

Hello. Sorry-I was away yesterday. Obviously I would be only too happy to help in whatever way I can. I am in all day tomorrow. This email address is secure.

I look forward to hearing from you.
